LEADING THE FIGHT AGAINST HEARTWORM DISEASE

Join the AHS by May 15, 2018 and Earn a FREE Companion Membership

Expand Your Clinic's Heartworm IQ

Because few diseases threaten the health of pets like heartworm disease, the American Heartworm Society (AHS) devotes 100% of its efforts and resources to heartworm education and research. Our mission: to arm veterinary professionals with the latest scientific information on heartworm disease and equip you with tools to educate the pet-owning public.

April is National Heartworm Awareness Month, making it prime time to raise the heartworm IQ of your practice. To support your efforts, the AHS is making available a limited-time special offer* to veterinarians who join the American Heartworm Society between now and May 15, 2018: an additional 1-year free digital membership for the staff member of your choice. Just go to heartwormsociety.org/membership/join and complete your member application, and you'll receive a code for a free 1-year digital membership for a staff member.

The exclusive benefits of AHS membership include:

- Subscription to the AHS Bulletin, a quarterly publication that provides news on the latest heartworm research; diagnostic, treatment and prevention information; and updates on new, free client education tools
- Free C.E., available on the AHS website
- Discounts on AHS publications, including client education brochures
- Discounted registration on the Triennial AHS Symposium, 3½-day scientific meeting held every three years. This discount alone pays for the cost of membership.
- Opportunity to support heartworm research

Get ready for Heartworm Awareness Month 2018 and join the AHS by May 15th to take advantage of this special offer.
